
The window does not move because opinion changes. It moves because the anchors at its edges are repositioned — and then opinion follows.